Agenda/Minutes

Action Item review/update

See #Brought_Along above.
Recap after kid's illness slowdown:

- markus add @continuation as decided on previous con (is that the attribute name we want? Group: agree with name, as long as we can validate usage.)
- markus add @rend:indent proposal 2

Spec changes, progress update

Report Matt, Markus

- @Matt create a wiki page -- zedai_terminology, could also lift in overview diagram.
- Markus, James can read the spec through

Public Release Preparations

- All major remaining changes need to be in place by April 30
- Any issues remaining at that point will be deferred.
- Initial May weeks consists of schema testing, minor bugfixing, doc updates and public wiki information page authoring
- Release announced Friday 21st of May.

The length of time that this May release will stay in that state is currently undecided, and depends on testing input, and relations to W3C specs we are waiting, and some ZedDist dependencies.

By early april, we will begin distributing action items for the below (this item stays in our agendas til then as a reminder).

- Review of schemas
- Review of spec
- Review of primer
- Review of profile resource directories
- Review of feature resource directories
- Start of end user oriented wiki pages at the DAISYPedia wiki, including:
  - Wiki document: executive summary, with major points such as: adaptable, extensible, embraces both simple and advanced usage, content types: goes beyond the book, ready for the global library (rich metadata (ONIX, MODS), packaging (mime, OCF), parallell publishing: rich enough for Braille
  - Wiki document: zedai for dtbook connoisseurs (going through major differences)
  - Wiki document: customizing a ZedAI profile
- Cleanup of outdated intro docs on zednext wiki
- revive a forum for bugreports/questions from the community re zedai

Element and attribute renaming
Candidates:

- @for → @ref? (@for is html heritage)
- quote → quotation
- book module → something which doesn't tie it to books (also applies to journals etc)

... more?

for attribute

Matt: agree that ref is a more generic name, doesn't imply a direction.

James: not crazy about it, but its the best we can do. Its not self-documenting.

Decision to rename attribute for to attribute ref.

Group decision to not rename quote to quotation"

Cite vs citation: James: Mirriam/Webster: "citation, an act of quoting".

Group decision to rename the cite element name to "citation" in harmony with docbook and CMoS

This weeks Braille issues

Issue 109

- Refer to tracker Issue 109 (http://code.google.com/p/zednext/issues/detail?id=109)
- and recent email traffic (<divider/>, <wpart>).

Markus: arguing that its not Braille-specific.

Matt: wpart could be helpful also when doing grammar books.

Group decision to add wpart to grammar

Issue 112

- Refer to tracker Issue 112 (http://code.google.com/p/zednext/issues/detail?id=112)

Group decision to defer this issue to a future Braille specific Feature.

Issue 113

- Refer to tracker Issue 113 (http://code.google.com/p/zednext/issues/detail?id=113)
Group decision to defer this issue to a future Braille specific Feature.

Issue 114

- Refer to tracker Issue 114 (http://code.google.com/p/zednext/issues/detail?id=114)
  - a "range" role on num element would take care of the first problem
  - names, "J. F. K."

Markus: for all abbreviations, or just abbreviated names? Solution could be: <name>J. F. K.</name>
