These 1,764,263 records ISSN are presently associated to 1,677,497 ISSN-L.

The ISSN-L (or linking ISSN) is an identifier which enables to group all the editions on different physical media of a same resource.

Each resource recorded in the ISSN Register is identified by one ISSN and one ISSN-L.

The difference between the number of ISSN and the number of ISSN-L (86,766) means the number of resources published on two different physical media at least.
The main media of the ISSN Register is the ISSN Portal which is available on Internet (http://portal.issn.org).

This portal is directly updated in a continuing way through the computer system implemented by the International Centre.

The ISSN Register is also available through the Z39.50 and OAI-PMH protocols, in raw data file in ISO 2709 format.
